

Jan Hayden Comments in Law360 on AMR, US Airways Antitrust Lawsuit with Department of Justice

As AMR Corporation battles the federal government's efforts to block its proposed merger with US Airways Group Inc., the U.S. Department of Justice probably won't see a bankruptcy judge's blessing of the merger as a reason to back off.

In this Law360 article, Jan Hayden comments on the probability of the merger being approved and how the court could decide that the government waited too long to take a stand on megamergers in the airline industry. "I do think if the DOJ was going to be making these arguments, it might've been better doing it a while back," said Ms. Hayden.
