

NEWS

Kenneth Klemm Discusses Recent Corporate Citizenship Ruling with ABA's Litigation News

In this article in the American Bar Association's Section of Litigation News, Kenneth Klemm comments on a recent ruling which found that a corporation's principal place of business for diversity jurisdiction purposes is determined by the key controlling officer's residence, not the location of the company's main office.

Read the Article