

Alisa Chestler Comments on Cyber Security in Commercial Appeal

In this Commercial Appeal article, Alisa Chestler discusses how companies are trying to redouble efforts to thwart attacks following the recent breaches that include theft of personal information of 22 million U.S. government employees. Ms. Chestler notes that, while data security is a top concern of senior corporate executives at many companies, many executives are not sure if their security measures are the best available and that Baker Donelson's upcoming event, "Securing Your Future: Staying Ahead of Developments in Cybersecurity," will help them.

"This can help them understand: 'Are we on the high end or are we on the low end,' " said Ms. Chestler.