Alisa Chestler Comments on Cybersecurity Concerns in the Mississippi Business Journal

Cyber security is on the minds of business and professional people as issues and threats increase. No sector is immune from these issues. In this Mississippi Business Journal article, Alisa Chestler, chair of Baker Donelson's privacy and information security team, notes that cyber concerns cannot be ignored by any type of business.

"It affects all businesses," Ms. Chestler said. "When a business does not know or understand what information they have, where they have it and how it's protected or there are no controls in place to protect and prevent hacking, they're vulnerable to attack."
